

University resource guide to be created for international researchers

International researchers will be given an opportunity to find research partners at Siberian Federal University through a database to be created soon. The Office of International Affairs aims at establishing a resource guide for scholars seeking collaboration, partners or expert opinions among SFU faculty and staff. Faculty, staff and graduate students will be listed by topics of interest. Visitors will have an opportunity to search for them by keyword or name. In addition, graduate students, teachers and researchers at an early stage of their career will be able to find international partners for their research projects and to establish contacts abroad.

The university hopes that the database will help international researchers and faculty members find experts and research partners among the university community.
