

A web programmer from Siberian Federal University won the first place at the First Siberian IT Festival

Andrey Barhkatov, a web programmer from the Internet Centre, Siberian Federal University, won the first place in a competition of IT specialists held at the First Siberian IT Festival on 1-3 November.

Andrey Barkhatov won the first place among internet software specialists and received a laptop as a prize.

Other categories of competition included: the best hardware specialist, the best system administrator, and the best specialist in information security. Leonid Kabanov won the second place as system administrator.

6 november 2007

© Siberian federal university. Website editorial staff: +7 (391) 246-98-60, info@sfu-kras.ru.

Web page address: <https://news.sfu-kras.ru/node/2389>